CREATIONS. Eng.: Bn. St. John of Bletso, 1559; a Bt. 1660.—Oliver St. John, 8th Bn. Beauchamp of Bletso (abeyant Peerage), was the first to obtain this Barony. That of Beauchamp had been conferred, by Edward III., upon Roger de Beauchamp, a distinguished soldier and Chamberlain of the Household. Sir H. Nicolas mentions no fewer than eight Baronies bearing the title of Beauchamp, and that of Beauchamp of Bletso was created by writ in 1363, but remained dormant from the above Roger's death in the absence of any further summons. Upon the creation by patent of the St. John Barony the other title was revived, but through female inheritance it passed successively from this line to the Earls of Nottingham and Peterborough and the Duke of Gordon, till it fell into abeyance in 1836 between the four surviving sisters of the 5th Duke and the then heir of the Duke of Manchester. The 2nd Bn. St. John was one of the Judges in the trial of Mary Queen of Scots. The 4th was made Earl of Bolingbroke, but that title expired with the 3rd Earl. The existing Bolingbroke Viscty., however, starts from the same ancestry as this. The form "Bletso" is that of the Roll of the Peers and of 'Debrett' and Mr. Cokayne; elsewhere it is given as "Bletsoe" or "Bletsho."

 The 1st Count de Salis was Ambassador from the Grisons Republic to Queen Anne, and his son, the 2nd Count, was naturalised 1730 as a British subject. All younger sons, and their sons, have a right to prefix "Count" to their Christian names, and similarly daughters can prefix "Countess" so long as they are unmarried. The family—which contains now between one and two hundred members, mostly German, but some Italian and French—were created Hered. Kts. by Pope Pius V. in 1571. The name is Italian, but the branch given under De Salis (q.v. for all other names) has anglicised it and thus takes the preposition as part of the surname.

Salisbury; town res., 20 Arlington St., S.W.

Creations. Eng.: Bn. Cecil, 1603; Visc. Cranborne, 1604; E. of Salisbury, 1605. Gt. Br.: M. of Salisbury, 1789.—There were Earls of Salisbury from the time of Stephen, but the title underwent several temporary extinctions. The 3rd Earl in the second line was beheaded by the rebel Jack of Cirencester in 1400. Richd. Nevill, the 1st in the next line, was attainted and beheaded. His successor, Earl also of Warwick, was slain at Barnet in 1471. Both Earldoms were next conferred upon the Duke of Clarence, the murdered brother of Edward IV. Then the Duke of Gloucester, afterwards King Richard III., was made Earl of Salisbury. After him Margaret, daughter of the Duke of Clarence, was Countess, but she too was attainted and beheaded. This brings us to the commencement of the present line, which was created simultaneously with that of Exeter. The Rt. Hon. Sir Robt. Cecil, younger son of Wm. Cecil, Ld. Burghley, and Secretary of State under Elizabeth, was awarded the above three English titles shortly after King James's accession. The 7th Earl, an F.R.S. and Lord Chamberlain to Geo. III., was raised to the Marquessate. The 2nd Marq. was Lord Lieutenant of Middlesex and Lord President of the Council. The late 3rd Marquess, K.G. and G.C.V.O., was thrice Prime Minister and four times Secretary for Foreign Affairs. Previous to his accession to the Peerage he had been (1853-68) an M.P., at first as Lord Robt. Cecil and from the death of his elder brother as Visc. Cranborne.—The family name is conventionally Cecil only, that of Gascoyne having been added by the and Marquess on his marriage with a lady of that surname.

CREATION. U.K.: Bn. Savile, 1828.—The 1st Bn. was the Rt. Hon. Sir Jno. Savile, G.C.B., who had been Minister Plenipotentiary to several Continental Courts. His original name was Savile-Lumley, which he exchanged 1887 for Savile, the present Peer in 1898 prefixing the surname which had formerly stood second: this however must have been for himself alone, as he gives us "Savile-Lumley" for the names below. There had existed a much earlier Barony and Viscty. of Savile, and the 2nd Bn. was created Earl of Sussex in 1644; but at his death in 1671 all his honours expired, and, though the name was Savile, no mention is made in either 'Burke' or 'Lodge' of any connection with the present house.

Lawes. Res., Old Southcote Lodge, Reading; 5 Rosslyn Court, Hampstead, N.W. (Broughton Castle, let to Ld. Algn. Gordon-Lennox).

CREATIONS. Eng.: Bn. Saye and Sele, 1447 by writ, 1603 by patent (precedence governed by latter).—Sir James Fiennes, Warden of the Cinque Ports and Lord Treasurer of England, was created 1st Bn.; subsequently, however, he was imprisoned in the Tower, whence he was riotously dragged by Jack Cade's mob and beheaded in Cheapside. His successor was made Vice-Adm. of England under the great Earl of Warwick, but afterwards he fled to Flanders with Edward IV., and was ultimately slain at the Battle of Barnet. The next four Barons were never summoned to Parliament, but the 7th received a new Barony by letters-patent. The 8th Bn. (2nd by patent, but the numbering is reckoned from the 1st Bn. by writ) was distinguished as a leader on the side of the Parliament against King Charles, but though he remained "rebelliously disposed" he died in 1662 without having suffered any punishment from that Monarch's son. He was created Visc. Saye and Sele; but at the death of his son the 2nd Visc. in 1674 the Baronies went into abeyance, the one by writ being regarded as governing the succession; but the Viscty. held on till the death of its 6th possessor in 1781. At this date the abeyance was determined in favour of Thos. Twisleton, a Major-General in the Army, who thereupon succeeded as 13th Bn. (the numbering of 'Burke,' derived retrospectively from the date 1715, when the abeyance was actually terminated, though three successors de jure never assumed the title). The next Peer assumed the name of Fiennes (also Eardley, which went no further than his successor), and the 16th (né Twisleton), who was Canon Residentiary of Hereford Cathedral, adopted the addition of Wykeham-Fiennes. He was 20th in descent from Geoffrey, Ld. Saye, one of the 25 Barons who wrung from the King the observance of Magna Charta.—The family name is conventionally Fiennes only, though the full form occurs in the 'Army List.'

Creations. Irel.: Visc. Lumley, 1628. Eng.: Bn. Lumley, 1681; Visc. Lumley, 1689; E. of Scarbrough, 1690.—An English Barony of Lumley was conferred in 1399 upon Sir Ralph de Lumley, Deputy-Governor of Berwick-upon-Tweed; this Peerage lasted till the death of the 7th Bn. in 1609 (his father having been attainted, and himself having obtained the title by a new creation which lapsed on his dying childless). The Irish Viscty. was conferred upon Sir Richd. Lumley (Kt.), a great grandson of the previous 5th Bn. and 2nd cousin of the 7th, and who was afterwards a Commander under Prince Rupert. His successor, who held chief command at Sedgemoor in 1685, when the Duke of Monmouth was defeated, obtained the three English titles of the later creation. The 7th Earl assumed the additional name of Savile, but this ceased on the accession of the 9th, who was a cousin.

 The last four Bts. were also holders of the Btcy. of Hartington, which passed in 1905 to the Rt. Hon. Sir Alex. Fuller-Acland-Hood, 4th Bt. of St. Audries. The two Btcies. of Gt. Barr and Hartington were created the one in the name of Scott and the other of Bateman, but the latter was made open to succession of male descendants of the 1st Bt.'s daughters. The 2nd Bt. of Gt. Barr married the daughter and co-heir of the 1st Bt. of Hartington, and thus the 3rd Bt. in the Gt. Barr line came at his birth to be inheritor of the other line also. This explains the double name "Bateman-Scott," or "Bateman and Scott" formerly in use.

SCOTT, BARONET of Hartington—see "Hood (F.-Acland-)."

(C.); mar. 1898 Mary Elizabeth Nina, dau. of the late Jos. H. Townend, Esq., M.D. Res., Ballacolla House (Abbeyleix) and Ballybrophy House, both Queen's Co.

CREATIONS. Scot.: E. of Seafield, Visc. Reidhaven, and Ld. Ogilvy of Deskford and Cullen, 1701; a Bt. 1625. U.K.: Bn. Strathspey, 1884.—Sir Walter Ogilvie (Kt.) was in 1616 created Ld. Ogilvie, and his son James was in 1638 and 1641 advanced to be Earl of Findlater. The Lordship and 1st Earldom expired; but the 1641 Earldom lasted till the death of the 7th in its line. James, 4th Earl of Findlater, received two creations of Peerage, the former including a Viscty. of Seafield which lapsed concurrently with the Findlater Earldom. At the second creation he was awarded the above three Scottish titles, this time with remainder to heirs of his estate. Accordingly on the death of the above 7th Earl (4th of Seafield) the titles of 1701 passed to a cousin, Sir Lewis Alex. Grant, 8th Bt., who forthwith assumed the additional name of Ogilvie and became 5th Earl of Seafield. The 9th Earl was made Bn. Strathspey, a title previously granted to the 7th, but lapsing on the death of his successor. 'Burke' now adopts "Ogilvie-Grant" as the surname in place of his former "Grant-Ogilvie." Conventionally it is Grant only, and hence the family have evidently been indifferent as to the compound order.

afterwards Earl was Sir Anthony Ashley Cooper, 2nd Bt., a prominent statesman who during the Stuart trouble sided first with the King, then with the Parliament, and ultimately with the Restoration. He was a member of the "Cabal" Ministry and became Lord High Chancellor, but it is to his influence that the nation is indebted for the Habeas Corpus Act, which he carried through the two Houses with great difficulty; he was also the first to introduce a Bill for rendering the Judges independent of the Crown. The 3rd Earl was distinguished in literature and philosophy; the 7th as one of the most noted philanthropists of the 19th century. The surname is conventionally Ashley only.

SHREWSBURY (pron. Shrohzbury), Earl of, and Earl TALBOT. Charles Henry John (Chetwynd-) Talbot, 20th E. of Shrewsbury (Eng.) and 5th Earl Talbot (Gt. Br.); E. of Waterford (Irel.); Prem. Earl on Rolls both of Eng. and Irel., but see Introd. under "Earl;" K.C.V.O. (1907), Hered. Lord High Steward of Ireland and High Steward of the Borough of Stafford, formerly Lieut. Staffordsh. Yeom.; son of 19th E.: b. Nov. 13, 1860; suc. 1877 (C.); mar. 1882 Ellen Mary, dau. of the late Chas. R. Palmer-Morewood, Esq., and divorced wife of Alf. E. M. Mundy, Esq. Seat, Ingestre Hall, Stafford. (Ctss. of S., Alton Towers, Stoke-upon-Trent.)

Creations. Eng.: E. of Shrewsbury, 1442. Gt. Br.: Bn. Talbot, 1733; Earl Talbot and Visc. Ingestre, 1784. Irel.: E. of Waterford, 1446.—A Barony of Talbot by writ commenced in 1331 (and that out of a feudal Barony dating from the time of Henry I.), and this Peerage continued until it is now for the second time in abeyance. Jno. Talbot, 7th Bn. (a Buns. was 6th in line), a great Commander in the French wars, termed by Shakespeare "the great Alcides of the field," though once defeated and taken prisoner by Joan of Arc, was created Earl of Shrewsbury and of Waterford, being twice made Lord Lieutenant of Ireland. He was slain in his 80th year after having been victorious in forty fights; and the English dominion in France practically expired with him. The 2nd Earl fell at Northampton on the Lancastrian side. The 6th Earl became 4th husband of the proud and unscrupulous woman Elizabeth, daughter of John Hardwick. The 11th Earl died from a wound received in a duel with the 2nd Duke of Buckingham. The 12th was created Duke of Shrewsbury (1694) for his services in transferring the crown to William of Orange (he having embraced the Protestant religion in place of that of his ancestors): he was afterwards influential in securing the succession of George I. But he left no issue and the Dukedom expired. His cousin and successor returned to the older religion and was in holy orders. The above Barony of 1331, after its first abeyance, passed by marriage into the Norfolk Dukedom, in which it remained until the death of the 9th Duke in 1777. Meantime in 1733 there had been created the still existing Barony of Talbot (of Hensol), which was conferred upon Chas. Talbot, son of the militant Bp. of Durham (see Introd., "Bishops") and a descendant of one of the younger sons of the 2nd Earl, himself being successively M.P. for Tregony and Durham, a P.C., and afterwards Lord Chancellor. His son and successor, Lord Steward of the Household, was created Earl Talbot. The elder Shrewsbury line became extinct with the 17th Earl in 1856, so that the succession then passed to the 3rd Earl Talbot, who became 18th Earl of Shrewsbury and of Waterford. The additional surname Chetwynd was taken by royal licence by the 1st Earl Talbot, but it is generally ignored in use except in legal documents.

SINCLAIR, family name of Caithness Earldom, q.v. for "Ladies" and "Hons.," and of Pentland Barony (not of follg.)

SINCLAIR, Baron. Charles William St. Clair, 15th Bn. (Scot.), a Scot. Repres. Peer (el. 1885), a D.L. for Berwicksh., Col. in Army retd., late of 57th Foot, served in Crimea and Mutiny and as A.D.C. in N.Z. War of 1861-2; son of 14th Bn.: b. Sept. 8, 1831; suc. 1880 (C.); mar.

CREATION. Scot.: Ld. Sinclair, 1442, confirmed 1489.—The 1st Ld. fully recognised was Henry Sinclair, grandson of an Earl of Caithness, but 'Burke' now regards that Earl himself (Earl also of Orkney) as the 1st Ld., such title being given him in several writs, as it is to his next successor, thus bringing the above Henry (who eventually was killed at Flodden Field) to the position of 3rd Ld. The 9th Ld. had an only daughter, styled Mistress of Sinclair, upon whose sons he made a settlement of the succession. The 10th Ld. died in 1723, and the title became dormant on account of his son having been attainted for engaging in the rebellion of 1715. In 1782 the House of Lords admitted the claims to succession of Charles St. Clair, who was a member of another branch of the family, but coming within the scope of "heirs general:" their founder is given as Sir Wm. St. Clair of Herdmanston, a companion-in-arms of King Robert Bruce.

 There is an indistinct account of an earlier Baronetcy of this line created in 1631, which date is to be found in some of the 'Baronetages,' though they only commence counting the Baronets from 1704. In 'Foster' (1882) the entire line is relegated to his "Chaos," with the statement that an ancestor was "said to have been created a Baronet of Nova Scotia Jan. 2, 1631, by patent not registered, to the heirs male of his body," in which case "the title expired in the person of the 1st Bt." But 'Burke' gives Oct. 12, 1704, as the date of a new creation free from any doubt whatever, and supplies the names and dates of all the six Bts. who have followed the 1st. Note that the three lines of Sinclair Baronets are all of Caithness-shire and that the Earl of Caithness and Bn. Pentland bear the same surname.

Rifle Vols., formerly Lieut. 60th Rifles, served with Red River Expedn. 1870; son of 14th D.: b. July 22, 1846; suc. 1894 (C.); mar. 1877 Susan Margaret Richards, a Lady of Justice St. John Jerus., dau. of the late Chas. Mackinnon, Esq. Seats, Maiden-Bradley House. Bath; Berry-Pomeroy, Totnes, Devon; Burton Hall, Loughborough, Leic.; town res., 35 Grosvenor Sq., W.

Creations. Eng.: D. of Somerset and Bn. Seymour, 1547 (Barony one day bef. Dukedom); a Bt. 1611.—Sir Edwd. Seymour, brother of Jane Seymour and Kt. of the Bath, who became 1st Duke, was a great favourite with Henry VIII., who appointed him Protector of his son Edward VI. (the Duke's nephew). He was also made Earl Marshal and Lord Great Chamberlain, both for life only. A grandson was the first to receive the Baronetcy. The Protector, however, was brought to the block in 1552 through an outrageous usurpation of authority on the part of some leading nobles abetted by the Roman Catholics. His titles were thus forfeited, but one of his sons was made Earl of Hertford and Bn. Beauchamp. This nobleman married Catherine, sister of Lady Jane Grey, and her being of royal descent rendered the union criminal in law; both of them were accordingly sent to the Tower, the Earl remaining there for nine years and his wife dying. His grandson succeeded him and was in 1640 created Marq. of Hertford, and in 1660 the Dukedom and Seymour Barony were restored with the original precedence. He unhappily was guilty of a like indiscretion to that of his grandfather, for he secretly married James I.'s 1st cousin, Lady Arabella Stuart, and had in consequence to flee the country, whilst his wife died in the Tower. The Marquessate expired with the 4th Duke, but the Earldom and the titles of 1547 went to a cousin, who was shot in Italy by the husband of a lady to whom he had been offensive. The 6th Peer, who was known as "The Proud Duke," married Lady Elis. Percy, daughter of the last Earl of Northumberland, distinguished as Mistress of the Robes to Queen Anne. The 7th Duke was given the lapsed Earldom just named, but both that and the Hertford Earldom, with some other honours, lapsed at his decease, the Dukedom once more going to a collateral. This leading title, the second in rank in the Peerage of England, had been originally created in 1443, and was repeatedly extinct or forfeited before 1547, the 2nd Duke having been beheaded in 1463 when taken in arms against Edward IV. at Hexham. The surname was long corrupted into Seymour, but the original St. Maur was restored by the 13th Duke.

L.U.); unmrrd. Seats, Costessey Park, Norwich; Stafford Castle, Staffs.

CREATIONS. Eng.: A Bt. 1621; Bn. Stafford, 1640.—There were eight Bns. Stafford by tenure, and after these there was in 1298 created a Stafford Barony by writ, the 2nd Bn. being made Earl of Stafford (Co.), and the Peerage lasting till 1521, when the 9th Bn. and 8th Earl, who was also 3rd Duke of Buckingham, was beheaded. The Barony was newly created in 1547, when Henry Stafford, son and heir of his beheaded predecessor, was the recipient. This line lasted till about 1640, and was then immediately restarted, Sir Wm. Howard, Kt. of the Bath, a younger son of the Earl of Arundel and a descendant of the last Duke of Buckingham, being made Bn. and Visc. Stafford. He was attainted in 1678 and beheaded in 1680, but in 1688 his widow was made a Countess for life, and her son created an Earl, this last title continuing till 1762. The title of Stafford was now dormant for over 60 years, but a resolution of the House of Lords in 1824 reversed the attainder of 1678 and awarded the title of 8th Bn. to Sir Geo. W. Stafford-Jerningham, 7th Bt., as heir general of the Howard line. The terms of remainder as given by Nicolas are, "to the heirs male of their bodies, failing which to the heirs [female] of their bodies." The numbering is reckoned from 1547, as the extinction in 1640 was immediately followed by recommencement. It may be added that in 1461 a Humphry Stafford was created a Baron, but beheaded eight years afterwards.

Creations. U.K.: Bn. Strafford, 1835; E. of Strafford and Visc. Enfield, 1847.—This well-known Earldom of more troublous times was revived and awarded to Fd.-Marshal the Rt. Hon. Sir John Byng, G.C.B., G.C.H., grandson of the 1st Visc. Torrington and on his mother's side a descendant of the Wentworth family, to whom the original Peerage was assigned: he was a distinguished Commander in the Peninsula and at Waterloo. The Barony was conferred on him first, and the Earldom twelve years later. Both the 2nd and 3rd Earls were summoned to the Lords in their fathers' Barony, having previously sat in the Commons: the 3rd Earl was Under Secretary for Foreign Affairs and for India. Of earlier holders of the Earldom the first was Thos. Wentworth, who was impeached and beheaded in 1641. His son had the honours restored to him in 1662, but he died childless in 1695. The title was again revived in 1711 and conferred upon the 3rd Bn. Raby, who was a great-nephew of the 1st Earl; and under this creation it was held by three Peers and expired in 1799.

CREATIONS. Eng.: E. of Suffolk, 1603; Visc. Andover id Bn. Howard of Charlton, 1622; E. of Berkshire, 1626. Lord Thos. Howard, son of the attainted 4th Duke of orfolk (beheaded 1572), was created Earl of Suffolk: he id been a distinguished naval officer under Elizabeth id was specially vigilant in discovering the Gunpowder lot; later on he was appointed Chancellor of Cambridge University and Lord High Treasurer of England. reviously to the Earldom he had received the Barony Howard de Walden, but that Barony fell into abeyance n the death of the 3rd Earl and ultimately was revived a different branch of the family. The 1st Earl's 2nd n was created Visc. Andover and afterwards Earl of erkshire. The 4th Earl of the latter title succeeded as th Earl of Suffolk (the tenures of title in this line aving averaged much shorter than those of the other wing to a brother or uncle having succeeded in four istances). Former Earldoms of Suffolk had existed, nd one of them in 1448 rose to be a Dukedom: the 3rd uke was beheaded in 1513 and a 4th created a year fter; the 7th and last was beheaded in 1554. There had lso been one Earl of Berkshire previous to the above reation, but this lasted only 1620-3.

CREATIONS. Scot.: E. of Sutherland, about 1230, Eng.: A Bt. 1620; Bn. Gower, 1703; Gt. Br.: Earl Gower and Visc. Trentham, 1746; Marq. of Stafford, 1786. U.K.: D. of Sutherland, 1833.—The Scottish Earldom is said to have existed in 1057; but William, styled the 1st Earl, was given the title about 1230 for his services in suppressing an insurrection. The 11th Earl was succeeded by his sister. The 12th (rather 13th, if the Countess is reckoned) forfeited his title in 1562 from suspected complicity in the Earl of Huntly's rebellion; but it was restored in 1565, from which date his precedence is reckoned in the Scottish Roll of Peers. He was afterwards poisoned by his uncle's widow, who wanted the title for her son; but his own son escaped by accidental detention from the poisoned meal, and the perpetrator was sentenced to death, but preferred suicide in prison. The Countess who was 21st in line married the 2nd Marq. of Stafford, who long afterwards was created 1st Duke (in 1833). The 1st Bn. Gower was Sir Jno. Leveson-Gower, 5th Bt., who had married a daughter of the 1st Duke of Rutland. His successor was raised to the Earldom, the 2nd Earl to the Marquessate, and the 2nd Marq. to the Dukedom-

It was the 2nd Duke who assumed the additional name of Sutherland.

TAAFFE, family name of follg. Viscounty.

TAAFFE, VISCOUNT. HENRY Taaffe, 12th Visc. (Irel.), a Count of the Holy Rom. Emp.; Lieut. in Austrian Army; son of 11th V.: b. May 22, 1872; suc. 1895; mar. 1897 Maria Magda Fuchs. Seat, Ellischau Castle, Silberberg, Bohemia; Kolinetz Castle, Bohemia.

CREATIONS. Irel.: Visc. Taaffe and Bn. of Ballymote, 1628. Holy Rom. Emp. (Austro-Germ.): A Count, 1783.—Sir John Taaffe (Kt.), son of Sir Wm. Taaffe (who had distinguished himself in putting down an Irish rebellion in 1597, as also in repulsing a Spanish invasion), was awarded these Irish Peerages. The 2nd Visc., who was made Earl of Carlingford, had been a zealous supporter of the Royal cause during the Civil War, and in consequence his estates were sequestered, bringing about the Continental residence of the family. The 3rd Earl, who was Chamberlain to the Emperor Ferdinand, a Marshal of the Empire and Councillor of State, was given the Holy Roman Countship. The Earldom lapsed on the death of the 4th Earl (5th Visc.) in 1783. The 6th Visc., who, being a collateral, obtained the Countship only by new creation as a reward for his services, defeated the Turks at the Siege of Belgrade. The 4th Count (9th Visc.) was Governor of Styria and Galicia and President of the Supreme Court of Appeal at Vienna. This series of foreign associations led to a questioning by the House of Lords as to the next Visct.'s status as a British subject, but this was recognised by the Committee of Privileges in 1860. The 11th Visc. was Prime Minister of Austria 1879-93.

Shuff, Esq., of Torquay. Res. Bloomsbury, Kells, Co. Meath.

CREATION. Irel.: Bn. Trimlestown, 1462. (The 16th Bn. spelt the title "Trimleston," and that is the form in the Irish Roll, but the present Peer restored the form here given.)—Sir Robt. Barnewall was created 1st Bn. by Edward IV. His successor had to receive a pardon for participation in the plot of Lambert Simnel. The 3rd Bn. was Lord High Chancellor of Ireland. On the death of the 16th Peer in 1879 the title was dormant till 1891, when it was claimed by a remote cousin who died the same year, before his right had been established: this process had consequently to be undertaken by his brother the present Baron. In 1634 there was a dispute as to precedence between the 7th Bn. and the 9th Bn. Dunsany, and it was then decided in favour of the former. In 1893, when the present Peer established his right, the order was reversed; but still later a new Roll was made up with "Trimleston" restore to its former position.

Dec.; M.P. for Oxford (C.), late Comptroller of Household to King Edward, is Hon. Col. (late Lt.-Col. cmdg.) Oxfordsh. Yeom., served in S. Africa 1900, formerly Lieut. 10th Hussars, is Chmn. Oxfordsh. C.C., and of its Territ. Force Assoc., was High Sheriff of Oxfordshire 1874; grandson of 10th V. and son of the late Hon. Arthur Annesley (d. 1844): b. Aug. 23, 1843; suc. 1863; mar. 1878 Laura Sarah, dau. of the late Danl. H. Webb, Esq., and widow of Sir Algernon W. Peyton, 4th Bt. Seats, Bletchington Pk., Oxford; Eydon Hall, Byfield, N'thants. (let).

Creations. Irel.: A Bt. 1620; Visc. of Valentia, 1622 (N.S.); Bn. Mountnorris, 1629.—Sir Fras. Annesley (Kt.), a P.C. and Secretary of State in the Irish Governnent, was created a Baronet (the second person in Ireland to obtain that title) and afterwards made Bn. Mountnorris. The Viscounty was a reversionary grant to fall to Sir Francis on the death of the then Visc., who was without an heir (Sir Henry Power, cr. Visc. 1622, d. 1642); the Mountnorris Barony was valid at once. The 2nd Visc. was made Earl of Anglesey and Bn. Annesley in the English Peerage, and these titles descended to the 6th Earl, who was also 5th Bn. Altham, a title conferred on the 1st Earl's 2nd son. But on his death in 1761 the English House of Lords refused to admit this 5th Earl's eldest son, raising an objection to his legitimacy, which the Irish Parliament had accepted as good. He thus retained the Irish honours and had that of Earl of Mountnorris added to them—an Earldom that went no further than his only surviving son (1793-1844). The Viscty. and the Mountnorris Barony now passed again to a collateral, the grandfather and predecessor of the present Peer; 'Debrett,' however, regards both of these as unsubstantiated claimants only, stating that they have never had their titles established by the Committee of Privileges.

CREATIONS. Eng.: A Bt. 1643; Bn. Waldegrave, 1686 (N.S.). Gt. Br.: Earl Waldegrave and Visc. Chewton, 1729.—Sir Henry Waldegrave, 4th Bt., was created 1st Bn. by James II., a natural daughter of whom he married. His successor was raised to the Earldom, and, becoming a Protestant, was able to take his seat in the Lords. The 5th Earl was drowned when a boy. The 8th was a Vice-Admiral and C.B., and was serving in the Mediterranean at the time of Nelson's victory at Trafalgar, but we are asked to correct the statement that he was himself engaged in that battle. The widow of the 7th Earl lived at the mansion of Strawberry Hill, and married as her 4th husband Chichester Fortescue, afterwards Lord Carlingford. The 1st Ld. Radstock was a brother of the 4th Earl.

Maynard, son of 3rd and last Visc. Maynard. Seats, The Castle, Warwick; Easton Lodge, Dunmow, Essex (let).

Creations. Eng.: Bn. Brooke, 1621. Gt. Br.: Earl Brooke, 1746; E. of Warwick, 1759.—The Rt. Hon. Sir Fulke Greville, a Kt. of the Bath and Chancellor of the Exchequer, was created 1st Bn. Brooke; he was descended on the female side from the brother of Wm. de Beauchamp, 10th Earl of Warwick (died 1298) in the original line. The 2nd Bn. was a General in the Parliamentary Army at Edgehill and in the Siege of Lichfield, during the latter of which he was killed by a musket-ball. The 4th Bn. was one of the Commissioners who invited Charles II. to return. The 8th Bn. was promoted to be Earl Brooke; and later, when a pre-existing Earldom of Warwick had become extinct, that title was added to his previous one. There had been Earls of Warwick from the time of William II., and the extinctions, forfeitures, and beheadings which have followed them, make the title a rival in tragedy with the Norfolk Dukedom. These concomitants, however, have been happily absent from the present line of descent. The 13th Earl of the original line (brother-in-law of the famous "king-maker," who in 1450 was created Earl for life) was promoted to be Duke of Warwick and crowned "King of the Isle of Wight" by Henry VI.'s own hand. These latter honours went no further than himself, and his sister's husband, who received the Earldom by a fresh creation, was slain at Barnet in 1471. Edward IV.'s brother, the Duke of Clarence, was the next recipient of the title, but he was attainted and murdered, his three successors being all beheaded. The second of the three who thus suffered was Margaret, Countess of Salisbury and Warwick; whilst the third, who was previously Visc. L'Isle, was created Duke of Northumberland two years before his execution. His son was restored to the Earldom, but died childless in 1589, when the title remained extinct till 1618. A new series of eight Earls now followed, and upon the lapsing of their line in 1759 that of the present Earl succeeded as stated above. "Earl Brooke," being the older, is the leading title upon the Roll.

CREATIONS. Irel.: Bn. La Poer, 1375 by writ; a Bt. 1665; Visc. Tyrone and Bn. Beresford, 1720; E. of Tyrone, 1746; M. of Waterford, 1789. Gt. Br.: Bn. Tyrone, 1786.—'Burke' gives us the precise date of creation of the original Barony, but does not give the name of its first holder, so that it appears doubtful whether he is satisfied of its existence; Bn. le Power, however (a title under attainder from about 1700, and the heir to which is E. de P. de la Poer, Esq.), he gives us as a descendant of Robt. de Poher, Knight Marshal and Joint Governor of Ireland in 1179. The 6th Bn. was in 1672 created Earl of Tyrone and Visc. Decies, but these titles expired with the 3rd Earl. The daughter of this last, however, who was allowed the Barony of La Poer in fee, married Sir Marcus Beresford, 4th Bt., and to him were accorded the Viscty. of Tyrone and subsequently a renewal of the lapsed Earldom. The 2nd Earl was elevated to the Marquessate and created Bn. Tyrone of Gt. Britain, whilst on the death of his mother he inherited also the Barony of La Poer—the only Irish Peerage besides the Massereene Viscty. which is open to female succession. The 4th Marq. was in holy orders, and the 5th, who had represented Co. Waterford in Parliament, became its Lieutenant, a K.P., and Master of the Buckhounds.

CREATIONS. U.K.: Visc. Wellington and Bn. Douro, 1809; Marq. and Earl of Wellington, 1812; D. of Wellington and Marq. Douro, 1814. Irel.: Bn. Mornington, 1746; E. of Mornington and Visc. Wellesley, 1760. Nethds.: Prince of Waterloo, 1815. Spain: Duque de Ciudad Rodrigo and a Grandee of the 1st Class, 1812. Portugal: Conde do Vimeiro, 1812; Duque da Vitoria (commonly spelt Vittoria, but the town is in Spain, where tt is never used), and Marquez de Torres Vedras, 1812.—Of the deeds of the great Duke of Wellington, the "hero of a hundred fights," this book is called upon to chronicle but the slightest summary. He sat in the Irish Parliament in 1790 as Member for Trim, but from 1794 to 1815 his career was all but wholly a military one. His first great battle was that of Assaye (1803) in the Nizam's dominions; and after it came the long series of the Peninsular War—Vimieiro, Talavera, Busaco, Fuentes d' Onoro, Ciudad Rodrigo, Badajoz, Salamanca, and Vitoria (these in 1808-13), followed by Orthez and Toulouse in France (1814), and then Quatre Bras and Waterloo. From Jan. 1828 for not quite three years he was Prime Minister. He died in 1852 at the age of 83. All the above honours of U.K. and the Continent were accorded to him personally. His grandfather, the 1st Bn. Mornington (Irish Peerage) was Richd. Colley, who assumed a cousin's surname of Wesley (the celebrated Rev. Jno. Wesley was a relative) and afterwards changed it to Wellesley. The 2nd Bn. obtained the Earldom of Mornington, and his 3rd son was the 1st Duke. The two elder sons were respectively Richard, 2nd Earl, created Marq. Wellesley in Ireland, who was Governor-General of India, but died childless; and William, 3rd Earl, created Bn. Maryborough—both titles passing to his son and grandson, but that of Maryborough lapsing on the death of this last in 1863, when the Mornington titles and the Wellesley Viscty. went to the 2nd Duke.

Wemyss, 1821.—Sir Jno. Wemyss, 1st Bt. (a title which expired with his son), was created 1st Ld. and Earl: he sided with the Parliament in the Civil War. The 2nd Peer obtained a new patent giving remainder of his Earldom and Lordship to his daughter and her heirs male. The heir of the Earl 5th in line was attainted for taking part in the rebellion of 1745, so that the titles remained dormant from his father's death till his own (1756-87), when, as he left no issue, his brother succeeded as untouched by the attainder. ('Burke, however, singularly calls the attainted successor "6th Earl de jure," thus making the present Peer the 10th; 'Debrett' on the other hand, omitting the Ctss. in the numbering, styles him only the 8th.) The latter's grandson, the 7th Earl, inherited also the Earldom of March, first bestowed on a son of the 1st Duke of Queensberry, the Hon. W. Douglas, whose sister had married the 4th Earl of Wemyss. The 7th Earl was likewise the recipient of the U.K. Barony. Surname conventionally Charteris only: this had been assumed in 1771 by the 6th Earl; Douglas appears to have been added by the 7th on his accession to the March Earldom with the landed estate of his great great grandmother Lady Anne Douglas.

Galway.

CREATIONS. Irel.: Bn. of Delvin, perhaps 1389 by writ; E. of Westmeath, 1621.—The name of Gilbert de Nugent is given as that of the 1st Bn. by tenure. The title then passed by marriage to the FitzJohn family, but came back by the same process to Sir Wm. Nugent. In concert with the Earl of Kildare the 12th Bn. was engaged in hostilities with the native Chiefs, by one of whom, O'Connor, he was treacherously made a prisoner and kept long in confinement. The 14th Bn. was commissioned by the Crown to extirpate the O'Mores, but was sent prisoner to London in 1580 on suspicion of holding treasonable correspondence with the Leinster rebels; having, however, established his innocence, he returned to Ireland, and Elizabeth ordered him several grants of forfeited land, which the troubles of the country prevented his receiving. His son, the 15th Bn., was raised to the Earldom. The 4th Earl was outlawed for having fought for James II., but the sentence was afterwards remitted. The 6th Earl conformed to the Protestant Church. The 8th was in 1822 created a Marquess, but he left no son and that title lapsed in 1877, whilst the Earldom passed to a cousin, an ancestor of whom had been created Lord Riverston by James II. after abdication — the title consequently being never admitted, though it continued to be used till its holder became 9th Earl. The 10th served on the Continent.

Creation. Eng.: Bn. Willoughby de Broke, 1491, by writ, also stated to be Bn. Latimer (1299), but the claim appears to be dropped.—Sir Robert Willoughby (Kt.), who had aided the winning side at Bosworth Field, was advanced by Henry VII. to the Willoughby de Broke Barony. He was afterwards Marshal of the English Army sent into France in 1493. The title was in abeyance 1522-1694, i.e. from the death of the 2nd Bn. till the awarding of the title to Sir Richd. Verney, an ancestor of whom had married one of the co-heiresses (Buss. 6th in line according to 'Burke'). The 'Peerages' now concur in styling his untitled predecessors Barons de jure, thus making the present Bn. the 19th.

Creation. U.K.: E. of Wilton and Visc. Grey de Wilton, 1801. — Sir Thos. Egerton, 7th Bt., 5th in descent from the sister of Thomas, Lord Grey de Wilton (attainted in 1604), was in 1784 created a Peer by these titles. As he had no male issue, the remainder was in 1801 extended to the younger sons of his daughter, wife of the 1st Marq. of Westminster; but the Baronetcy passed to another descendant of the 1st Bt., and is now that of Grey-Egerton. The 2nd Earl (née Grosvenor) resumed the family name of Egerton. The 3rd Peer, having been M.P. for Weymouth and Bath, was before succession created Bn. Grey de Radcliffe; but he died without issue, and this title lapsed, whilst the Earldom went to his brother.

Stanley Howard of Ballina Pk., Wicklow, and widow of Samuel Garnett, Esq. Seat, Amport-St.-Mary's, Andover, Hants.

CREATIONS. Eng.: Bn. St. John of Basing, 1539; E. of Wiltshire, 1550; M. of Winchester, 1551.—Sir Wm. Paulet, K.G., was the recipient of these three creations. He was a confidant of Henry VIII. and held the office of Lord Treasurer of England through the changes of the three succeeding reigns; and on being once asked how he had contrived to stand through them all, he replied, "By being a willow, not an oak." The 3rd Peer was given to literature and writing poetry. The 5th sacrificed all his property through supporting Charles I. in the Civil War, his mansion at Basing being burnt to the ground after a siege. The 6th Marq. was made Duke of Bolton, and that title ran through six in the line. The 3rd Duke (8th Marq.) involved himself with the actress Lavinia Bestwick, and had three sons by her previously to the death of his 1st wife. As he left no other issue, though he eventually married the actress, his titles went to his brother; but on the death of the 6th Duke, who was an Admiral of the White, the Dukedom expired and the Marquessate passed to a descendant of the 5th holder of that title. The 13th Marq. in his closing years assumed the additional name of Burroughs, but this appears to have been for himself alone. His grandson the 15th Peer was a Major in the Coldstream Guards and was killed at Magersfontein in December 1899.

Finch, 1674; E. of Nottingham, 1681.—The widow of Sir Moyle Finch, 1st Bt., was created Viscts. Maidstone and Ctss. of Winchilsea. The eldest son succeeded his father in the Baronetcy, but he predeceased his mother, so that his next brother became her successor in the Peerage. Sir Heneage Finch (Kt.), son of the 3rd brother, having been Attorney-General and Lord Keeper of the Great Seal, was separately created a Bt. and raised to the Peerage as Bn. Finch, and subsequently appointed Lord Chancellor with the title of Earl of Nottingham. His son, the 2nd Earl, succeeded as 7th Earl of Winchilsea. Previously hereto the 3rd Earl of Winchilsea (distinguished by having 27 children), who was high in favour with the 2nd Charles and James (prevailing upon the latter to return to London on his first attempted flight), was made Bn. FitzHerbert, a title that expired with the 5th Earl. His successor, named above as having united the two Earldoms, was twice Secretary of State under William, Anne, and George I.

Creation. Eng.: Bn. Zouche of Haryngworth, 1308, by writ.—William la Zouche, Lord of Haryngworth, was summoned to Parliament as 1st Bn. The 4th Peer was engaged in the French wars of Richard II. and Henry IV. On the death of the 11th Bn. in 1625 the title fell into abeyance, and so continued till 1815. The 5th Bn. had married the Bnss. St. Maur, 7th in line; but the abeyance affected both titles, and in the latter case has never been terminated. A second, but brief, abeyance of the Zouche line occurred in 1825, and the daughter in whose favour it was determined altered her title to De la Zouche. Her son the 14th Bn. did not continue this form, and the title stands on the Roll as "Zouche of Haryngworth."

INDEX TO THE SEATS AND RESIDENCES

CITED IN THE FOREGOING DIRECTORY.

 The design of this Index, the comprehensiveness of which we have been compelled somewhat to limit, is to furnish a ready means of reference to the occupant of every address in the Directory within the British Isles, provided it bears a distinctive name, is non-official in character, and held by a person not lower in rank than a Knight or the son or daughter of a Baron. The only exceptions are those of unsubstantiated claimants, or of ladies whose former claims to titles have been forfeited by re-marriage. Many residences will doubtless be merely villas or even houses in a terrace distinguished by some special name; but no line of exclusion can possibly be drawn, nor is it called for in a list which is not restricted to "seats." On the other hand there are almost certainly a large number of villages and hamlets cited in the form of residences; but this also is unavoidable (except by the putting of questions which would often be thought offensive) in view of the large number of actual seats which are designated by apparently local names without the addition of the word "House," "Hall," or "Park." Yet again, there are a large number of residences which are appended to more than one name in the DIRECTORY; and in these cases, if relationship cannot be traced, it is presumable that one name represents the occupant and the other the owner. We have done our best to make the distinction clear, or at any rate to supply the name of the occupant.

The greatest pains have been taken to supply to every address the far too frequently omitted post-town, a long dash being substituted when the Editor's efforts for its discovery have been without avail. More complete addresses will very often be found under the names in the Directory, but they are never consciously so abridged as to entail extra labour on the Post Office. It should be noted in the case of such abridgments as "Glos.," "Worc.," "Leic.," that they invariably denote the county and not the county town—no town whatever being contracted if it can possibly be confused with the county. "Durham" without "Co." means the city of Durham, and similarly in numerous Irish examples.

At the cost of much additional space, every address is now given in the style prescribed under our "Modes of Addressing Persons of Title:" many contractions, however, will naturally be expanded in copying. The name and style of the wife is appended in those numerous instances in which the husband does not hold a title which would on his own account have given him a place in this work.

The rule observed in alphabetising has been to treat the entire name of the residence as one word (the parenthesised "The," coming out of its true position, can only be ignored): this course is unavoidable on account of the vast number of instances in which a compound designation is spelt by some in a single word and by others in two.

BATH.

The ancient Episcopal City of Bath, the "Queen of Spas," as termed by its natives, occupies a leading position as a fashionable inland watering-place. Nestled on the banks of the River Avon, 11 miles from Bristol, and 107 miles from the Metropolis, Bath stands on an elevation of from 60 to 550 feet above sea-level, and has a population of about 50,000. Bath possesses an unrivalled combination of Archæological, Social, Historical, and Scenic attractions, besides the famous hot springs to which the city owes its origin, their healing virtues being tried annually by 100,000 bathers. The surrounding country is beautifully diversified, there being plenty of woodland and hills. The water supply is constant, and the drainage system is conducted on the most modern principle.

Writing on its qualities, the Medical Officer of Health for Bath says:—

"Bath is noted for possessing a great variety of climates within a comparatively circumscribed area. Central Bath has an equable climate, genial in the coldest weather, and eminently suitable for invalids and elderly people; while the modern developments of electric traction, electric tram-cars, motor omnibuses and taximeter cabs, have brought within easy reach the heights of Lansdown on the north, and those of Combe Down on the south. Lansdown is 750 feet above sea level, with bracing winds, and a limited view of the Bristol Channel. On the north may be seen the pleasing undulations of Gloucestershire, while on the south, terracing the opposing slopes, the fair city of Bath reclines.

"Buildings are scarce on Lansdown, and the views may be enjoyed during a two-mile drive on a level road to the ancient battlefield. The road is dry, being bedded on the cap of Great Oolite or Bath Stone, which is from 100 to 200 feet in thickness. Underlying the Oolite is the Fullers' Earth formation, which, being more easily denuded, gives gradual slopes. Immediately under the Fullers' Earth is the Inferior Oolite, the outcrop of which may be seen in the lane leading down to the picturesque village of Charlcombe.

"The River Avon coming northward from Limpley Stoke enters the Bath valley at Bathford, and is deflected sharply to the south-west, making another curve round Bath. It flows some distance in the direction of north-west, its course through Bath being curve-like, showing how great must be the variety of aspects enjoyed by the buildings on its banks, which, with the varying sub-soils, explain the varying climates.

"The Hot Springs of Bath yield a constant daily flow of over half a million gallons at a temperature of 120° Fahrenheit, only slight variation in either temperature or volume have been noted, and the water must have traversed a considerable distance at from one to two miles below the surface.

"The therapeutic value of the thermal water is most manifest in the treatment of gout and rheumatism, and if its specific action as a curative agent for these primary diseases is acknowledged, as it must be if we accept the cumulative evidence of eighteen hundred years, it follows that the use of these springs may be expected to be beneficial in most of those diseases which owe their origin either to gout or rheumatism, or to these maladies in combination. The most brilliant cures are probably those obtained in cases of muscular rheumatism, and various forms of neuritis such as sciatica; while in many forms of arthritis or disease of the joints, fairly complete arrest of the disease may result, and be maintained if the treatment is repeated every two or three years. The 'cure' occupies three or four weeks of the winter or early spring, as it is then that a fresh onset of the disease is most likely, but if symptoms supervene at any period of the year, through indiscretions of diet or through special strain of overwork or worry, the treatment should not be delayed for any special season of the year.

"The baths are not recommended for the acute stage of any disease, nor for tubercular disease at any time. Valvular diseases of the heart and epilepsy should not be treated by the baths. But drinking the water will be beneficial to the healthy and unhealthy alike, unless the blood-vessels are extensively diseased."

BATH THE PREMIER HEALTH RESORT

The Hot Mineral Waters, rising at a temperature of 120°, are administered at the completely equipped and luxuriously appointed Bathing Establishment. The Hot Springs of Bath are unrivalled for the cure of Gout, Rheumatism, Sciatica, Diseases of the Skin, and many other complaints.

High-class Symphony and Promenade Concerts are given in the beautiful Concert Hall, which opens on to covered terraces overlooking the renowned Roman Baths. In the same building drawing, reading and smoking rooms afford the comforts of a private club.

Historic houses, charming scenery, golf and hunting, indoor and outdoor amusements provide interest for every day.

BUXTON.

Standing as it does in the centre of the Peak district, 1,000 feet above sea level, and surrounded by hills and moorlands, Buxton has become famous as an ideal health resort. But the importance of the town is mainly due to the curative properties of its mineral springs. So popular have these become, that they are annually visited by over ninety thousand people, and every season marks a greater inflow of visitors to the town. The thermal waters are beautifully soft and clear, and of a light blue colour, differing materially from most spa waters, which are discoloured and unpleasant to bathe in. Their emollient properties render them admirably adapted for douche-massage. The Buxton waters are rich in nitrogen, and argon forms about 2 per cent. of the total amount of gas. Besides the simple thermal waters, there are non-gaseous, chalybeate waters. Both the chalybeate and thermal waters are taken internally, the latter in doses of four ounces to half-a-pint.

The summer months, April to September, are those in which the course is usually taken, but the baths are open throughout the year. Buxton is well supplied with promenades; there is excellent provision for amusement, and ample opportunities exist for recreation.

"Buxton is famous for its magnificent scenery, baths, &c.; in centre of Peak district, 1,000 ft. above sea-level—the highest in England—and nowhere is the air purer or more bracing. Water supply exceedingly good and soft. Epidemics are unknown. Prevailing winds, west and south-west. Buxton has a drier atmosphere than the great majority of other resorts; difficult to find a more healthy place or one more suitable for growing boys and girls." Situated at a great elevation among the high lands of the Peak district of Derbyshire, the town of Buxton lies in a deep valley built upon the junction of the mountain limestone and the millstone grit, and is surrounded by bold and picturesque hill and moorland scenery. (See p. lvi.)

CHELTENHAM.

One of the original and most widely known of English Spas, Cheltenham can still hold its own in competing for the patronage of physician and patient who are seeking a convenient place for a cure by water drinking, baths, massage, rest, and a change of scene and society.

The climate is soft, milder in winter and cooler in summer than that of London, though it affords upon the closely neighbouring Cotswold Hills a much more bracing air.

The mineral waters of Cheltenham now in chief use are called respectively the Magnesia Water, the Soda-Sulphate Saline, and the Alkaline Water. These waters are held to be of therapeutic value in gouty conditions, dyspepsia, constipation, obesity, gravel, or stone in bladder or kidney, gall stones and skin diseases. The artificially concentrated water of the Chadnor Villa Well is known as "Cheltenham Natural Aperient Water." The new "Central Spa," where the Montpellier, Pittville and Chadnor Villa waters may be taken, was inaugurated less than three years ago. External treatment can be obtained at the Montpellier Baths under the control of the Corporation.

DROITWICH.

Famed for its brine baths and picturesque old houses, Droitwich, situated amidst charming country, and within a few miles of Worcester City, holds a unique position among English Spas. Droitwich possesses a brine which may practically be regarded as a saturated solution of common salt. The composition of the brine is 22212.880 grains per gallon as follows:—

Chloride of Sodium	21761.872	Sulphate of Soda	342.720
Chloride of Magnesium	2.560	Iodide of Sodium	.208
Sulphate of Lime	91.120	Total Salts to an Imp. gallon ...	22212.880
Sulphate of Alumina	14.400

The brine has a specific gravity of 1·2129, and it has been shown to contain very marked radio-active properties. The baths have been brought thoroughly up-to-date, and the Spa continues to grow in popularity.

The chief diseases for which Droitwich treatment is indicated are various forms of neuritis, especially sciatica; all the more chronic forms of gouty and rheumatic joint trouble, especially rheumatoid arthritis or disease of the joints, derive great benefit from the treatment. Various forms of heart disease show considerable improvement under the special course adopted for their treatment. The joint stiffness following on acute rheumatism is quickly relieved. Inflammation of the muscles and fibrous tissue, so common after influenza, gain a speedy cure.

Recreations and Entertainments—Golf links (9 holes) close to town, professional engaged; coaching from April to October; angling in the Salwarpe and the Severn (5 miles away), &c.; boating; tennis; croquet; bowls; cricket; badminton; band in park (or in Salters Hall in wet weather), daily during summer season except Sundays; dramatic and social entertainments and concerts in Salters Hall; periodical illuminated fêtes with H.M.'s Guards' and other military bands; agricultural and horticultural shows. HARROGATE. See p. xxxviii.

This fashionable inland watering place, renowned for the medicinal properties of its waters, the magnificence of its baths, and the completeness of its hydropathic system, stands on a moorland plateau in the West Riding of Yorkshire, at a mean altitude of 400 feet.

Harrogate, with its great variety of springs, represents the resources of more than one Continental place of repute. It has its Kissingen; it has Auvergne springs; and it has a chloride-of-iron well of special and wide repute. The scenery in and around Harrogate is very attractive. Considering that, in addition to such natural advantages, the place offers much social diversion and many interesting excursions, we are justified in speaking of it as taking a position of the first rank among bath resorts in this or, indeed, in any country. There are about eighty different mineral springs at Harrogate, and the active constituents vary greatly, in amount and kind, in the various waters. Most of them are cold muriated waters, containing sulphuretted hydrogen and sulphide of sodium.

Harrogate is the most important centre in Yorkshire for thoroughly equipped private secondary schools. The enterprise and educational zeal of highly qualified teachers, aided by the salubrity of the climate, have made these schools famous in every part of England. Harrogate is known as the "Queen of English (Inland) Watering Places," and is world-renowned for the medicinal properties of its waters and its magnificent baths, which are acknowledged to be the finest in Europe. The distinguishing features of the climate of Harrogate are its bracing atmosphere, low humidity, and abundant sunshine. The mortality is and always has been remarkably low. During the last 10 years the average death-rate has been 12·62 per 1000. The incidence of disease amongst the resident population is low. Epidemic diseases are uncommon, and when they occur they are most frequently from imported cases. Respiratory diseases are infrequent and rheumatic fever is seldom seen. Harrogate is undoubtedly one of the best-drained towns in the kingdom. Sunshine records, average for 6 years, 1,796 hours. (See pp. lxi. and lxxxiv.)

Burrow's Malvern Waters.

The Great PROTECTION against the Danger of TYPHOID from Drinking Impure Water.

W. & J. BURROW,
The Springs,
- - Malvern. - -

MALVERN.

Great Malvern, a fine example of a Garden City, is a favourite watering-place, residential town, and scholastic centre, lying in the garden planes at the foot of the Malvern Hills, noted for their fine spring waters, pure air, and invigorating climate.

Malvern Water—from its extreme purity, and through the medical orders of distinguished Physicians—has come largely into use as a STILL TABLE WATER, free from Lime and all injurious Salts, so that it may be termed an efficient PROTECTION against Typhoid, Calcareous Disease, &c. There are many Springs of widely varying quality in or near Malvern—the PUREST being the HISTORIC SPRING in the Granite Hill above Great Malvern.

The Droitwich Brine is now conveyed directly from Droitwich to Malvern, so that the well-known Brine-baths may be obtained at Malvern also if required.

Great Malvern and the neighbourhood are much visited by invalids for whom a rather bracing dry inland climate is required; the place is open throughout the year. There are plenty of amusements in the shape of a theatre, concert hall, and open-air concerts, and two golf courses. See p. lxvi.

TUNBRIDGE WELLS.

Situated in the midst of charming scenery, chiefly in Kent, but partly in Sussex, Tunbridge Wells owes its popularity to its chalybeate spring and its natural advantages. It is a handsome and select residential town of 35,000 inhabitants, built in an irregular manner alongside an extensive common surrounded by hills, and the neighbourhood is rich in park-lands, woods, and pastoral beauty. The climate is of the dry and bracing inland type. It owes its peculiarities to the geological situation and to the formation of the surfaces. Between it and localities not far distant, but lying on different strata, as, for instance, Tonbridge, the climatic differences are great.

Tunbridge Wells was chiefly visited for its chalybeate water, which contains about 0·06 per mille carbonate of iron, but as it is very poor in free carbonic acid gas, cannot be ranked with the chalybeate waters of Spa in Belgium and Schwalbach in Germany. The place is now a climatic resort much visited by convalescents during the summer months. The well situated on the Pantiles is the most important of the mineral springs to which the town owes its name and its fame. The mineral water is only used for drinking purposes, nor would there be any advantage in employing it for bathing. The patients treated by means of the mineral water are almost always sufferers from anæmia and debility. In cases of severe anæmia the iron contained in the water is not in itself sufficient to effect a cure, and preparations of iron are administered as adjuncts to the course. The length of the course is two months, and it may be entered upon at any season of the year. The recovery of anæmic and weakly patients who resort to Tunbridge Wells for treatment is doubtless greatly aided by the climatic advantages for which the place is justly celebrated. See p. lxxii.

WHITAKER'S SCHEDULE REGISTERS OF
BOYS' and GIRLS' SCHOOLS.

Whitaker's system of Schedule Registers has been established in order to enable Parents and Guardians, in search of a suitable School, to ascertain all those particulars which cannot be contained in an advertisement in Whitaker's publications.

Two pages in each Register are allotted to every School. The Schedules are most comprehensive, and the particulars are classified under five headings, viz., General Information, School Buildings, Education, Special Features, and Domestic Arrangements.

Only one form of Schedule is used, consequently all essential points can be obtained at a glance from the Register more quickly and easily than by reading through the ordinary prospectuses.

Whitaker's Schedule Registers of Boys' and Girls' Schools have been placed at the undermentioned Offices, available for free inspection.

BOURNEMOUTH (Hants).

The Medical Officer of Health writes:—"For the past 50 years, Bournemouth has been adding to its reputation as one of the most perfect sanatoria in the United Kingdom. From early days it had gained a reputation with eminent men in the medical faculty, who found that a residence here for their patients for a few months in the spring, summer or winter gained lasting benefit, and in many cases the climate was curative in its effects, more especially to those suffering from diseases of the respiratory organs." This fashionable south coast health resort extends along a stretch of chine-broken cliffs in the wide open bay which forms the western extremity of Hampshire; and in recent years it has grown to considerable proportions. It owes its prosperity to the natural beauty of its situation, its climatic advantages, and the purity of its air, laden with the aromatic health-giving exhalations of its innumerable pine trees. Bright sunshine (1909), 1,906 hours; London, 1,305 hours.

BROADSTAIRS (Kent).

The Medical Officer of Health writes:—"Broadstairs is built on the cliffs, halfway between Ramsgate and Margate. Aspect, S.E. The town, which is built upon high land on a sub-soil of chalk, thus enjoying the advantages special to this geological formation, has no northerly aspect and is sheltered from cold winds. It is peculiarly fortunate in climatic fluctuations. Remarkably free from fogs and mists. Unusually high record of bright sunshine. The climate is equable and dry, beacing in summer and mild in winter. Suitable for invalids and delicate children throughout the year. The drainage system is excellent, and the water supply pure and abundant." Broadstairs, pop. 8,500. S.E. & C. Ry., 75 miles from London, is a quiet and select resort. Queen Caroline, when Princess of Wales, frequently visited the place, and also the late Queen (as Princess Victoria), and the Duke and H.R.H. the Duchess of Fife. Dickens often stayed at 12, High Street and at Lawn House and Bleak House. Sunshine (1909), 1,838·8 hours.

EASTBOURNE (Sussex).

Municipal Borough. Population, about 52,000. L.B. & S.C. Rly. 62 miles from London. Elevation, from sea level to 140 feet above; the districts of Mead and Upperton stand upon very high ground. Climate mild, invigorating, moderate rainfall. Bathing excellent.

The Medical Officer of Health writes:—"Its advantages as a health resort are much sunshine, pure air, absence of fog, clean, quickly drying roadways, large parks and gardens with many trees, a plentiful and good water supply from wells sunk in the deep chalk, and the proximity to the breezy, health-giving South Downs. The climate is generally beneficial in anæmia, scrofula and tubercular diseases; and its effects are especially beneficial in the case of convalescent children. Death-rate 1909 inclusive, 10·6 per 1,000; of residents, 10·0. Full benefit of winter sun is secured. Warm, sunuy shelter always obtainable in centre of town. Beachy Head breaks S.W. winds, and diverts much rain, dryness of soil being promoted by great porosity of chalk. More sunshine recorded than in any other place in England for two years following, 1906 and 1907, and nearly first in 1908 and 1909. (Sunshine, 1,904 hrs. in 1909)."

Eastbourne is situated on the coast between Brighton and Hastings, on the eastern slopes of Beachy Head, which rises 550 feet above the sea, and shelters the town. Eastbourne has developed, under the fostering influence of the Devonshire and Gilbert families, into a fashionable watering-place (select but not dull); a residential town (within one and a half hours from London by express train); and an important educational centre. The sea-front extends for a distance of three miles, without a single shop to mar the grand effect. A marine drive between the houses on the parades and the promenade is arranged at three levels, with garden terraces laid out with floral designs.

EASTBOURNE (Sussex).

Eastbourne consists of a big central area, and three suburbs—western, northern, and eastern. The Central area is level and contains the railway station and post office in Terminus Road, the town hall and the free library in Grove Road (both fine buildings). also the principal hotels, boarding establishments, apartment houses, and shops.

The Westnrn suburb, Meads, is a residential district, high above sea level. Compton Place, the residence of the Duke of Devonshire, is here; also the Saffrons Cricket Club. Most of the private schools are located here, which contain over 5,000 pupils and specially contribute to Eastbourne's prosperity. Upperton, to the north, adjoins the old town, and contains Hampden Park, which is eighty-two acres of matured woodlands.

Open spaces and a multitude of leafy gardens conduce to the healthiness of Eastbourne; many streets are lined with trees, nearly 9,000 of these sun-protectors being under the charge of the enterprising corporation, which maintains a service of motor omnibuses, and was the first public body to adopt the electric light.

HARROGATE (Yorkshire).

The Medical Officer of Health writes:—"Harrogate is the most important centre in Yorkshire for thoroughly equipped private secondary schools. The enterprise and educational zeal of highly qualified teachers, aided by the salubrity of the climate, have made these schools famous in every part of England. Harrogate is known as the 'Queen of English (Inland) Watering Places,' and is world-renowned for the medicinal properties of its waters and its magnificent baths, which are acknowledged to be the finest in Europe. The distinguishing features of the climate of Harrogate are its bracing atmosphere, low humidity, and abundant sunshine. The mortality is and always has been remarkably low. During the last 10 years the average death-rate has been 12·62 per 1000. The incidence of disease amongst the resident population is low. Epidemic diseases are uncommon, and when they occur they are most frequently from imported cases. Respiratory diseases are infrequent and rheumatic fever is seldom seen. Harrogate is undoubtedly one of the best-drained towns in the kingdom. Sunshine records average for 6 years, 1,796 hours."

MALVERN (Worcestershire).

Great Malvern, a favourite watering-place, residential town, and scholastic centre, lies in the garden plains at the foot of the Malvern Hills, noted for their fine spring waters, pure air, and invigorating climate. The Malvern Hills consist of a single chain of peaks some nine miles in length. About 16 counties on a clear day can be seen from the top. The Hills, which rise to an altitude of 1,400 feet, are easily accessible for delicate persons, either on foot or by carriage. The climate has a most beneficial effect on invalids. The houses are so placed as to receive more than the ordinary amount of sunshine. Weakly children, especially those suffering from tubercular glands or continually recurring catarrhs, in nearly all cases do remarkably well here. The rainfall is low, and the soil dries with remarkable rapidity.

MALVERN (continued).

The water supply is bountiful and of great purity, and the sanitary state of the district generally of a high standard. Persons having houses to let can obtain "Sanitary Certificates" from the Urban Council, and these are not granted unless the sanitary arrangements are thoroughly up-to-date. The average annual (corrected) death-rate for the past five years is as low as 9·9 per 1,000 of the population. Outbreaks of infectious diseases are few and quickly suppressed, as the Malvern Urban District Council are provided with every means for promptly dealing with any case that may arise. No trouble or expense is spared in making Malvern the "Queen of Health resorts." Pop., 18,000.

RAMSGATE (Kent).

The Medical Officer of Health writes:—"The climate of Ramsgate is equable, invigorating, and bracing, unmarred by sudden change. In the summer the sun's rays are deliciously tempered by cool sea breezes. Fogs are practically unknown. The amount of bright sunshine in 1908 was 1,810 hours 51 minutes. During the last five years there have been altogether 9,040 hours of bright sunshine, giving an annual average of 1,808 hours and 5 minutes, and a daily average of almost exactly 5 hours." A lively seaport, yachting station, and important fishing centre, Ramsgate occupies a position in between Deal and Broadstairs, sheltered against the north and east winds. This accounts for its reputation as a healthy residential town, and justifies its climatic claims (in summer mild, and in winter warm) to the continued support of Londoners. Population, 27,733.

SOUTHAMPTON.

The Medical Officer of Health writes:—"Southampton enjoys one of the mildest climates in the British Isles. The warmth of the climate is probably due to the nature of the soil and the contiguity of the New Forest to the south-west of the town, across which the prevailing winds blow. The average rainfall is 30·6 inches, the number of rainy days being low. Southampton is also favoured in the matter of sunshine, the annual average duration of sunshine being 1,748 hours."

ST. LEONARDS.

St. Leonards, a modern extension of Hastings, to the west, is an integral portion under the one corporation of Hastings and St. Leonards. Population 67,000. For more than a century it has been in high repute as a health and pleasure resort. It derives its claim to popularity from its accessibility to London (within 1¾ hours by express train), its proximity to some of the finest scenery in Sussex; the advantages of its climate, which have brought to the district many permanent residents, and have led to the establishment of a large number of private schools and convalescent institutions.

SEAFORD (Sussex).

Population, 4,300. A restful Sussex seaside resort, Seaford lies 58 miles from London (L.B. & S.C. Rly.), in a hollow in the South Downs, not far from the mouth of the Ouse and Newhaven. On the Sussex Coast, 58 miles from London, between Brighton and Eastbourne, L. B. & S. C. Rly. Climate of Seaford is equable, but bracing for south coast health resort. Never very cold in winter, and summer heat always tempered by cool sea breeze, so that hottest days in summer are not relaxing. It is a climate eminently suited to convalescents. The air has a true tonic effect on sick patients and produces a really marvellous improvement in a short time. The climate is dry, rainfall being small and, owing to chalky sub-soil, quickly absorbed. There is a large amount of sunshine enjoyed, and nothing to intercept it. There are no high hills to the west to cut off the evening light, and in the winter the sun sets in the ocean. The prevailing winds are south and west. From the north and east winds the town is considerably protected by high downs. The death rate has always been remarkably low, and the great age to which many inhabitants live is quite proverbial.

Recreations.—Golf, two clubs, each with gentlemen's links (18 holes) and ladies' course; rowing and sailing boats; good sea-fishing and freshwater fishing.

EDUCATIONAL SUPPLEMENT.

CONTINENTAL SECTION.

From enquiries which have been made it has been ascertained that the scope and utility of the Educational Supplement would be greatly increased as a medium for facilitating the selection of a suitable school by the inclusion of a section for schools on the Continent.

A large number of English-speaking people send their children to the Continent for education, and it must be of advantage to many readers to have a separate section relating to schools on the Continent.

In order to make the Continental Section of practical use to readers of the Peerage the proprietors are particularly desirous that it should constitute a reliable guide to Educational Establishments of the best class.

With this object in view all applications for the Continental Section must be first recommended by Messrs. GABBITAS, THRING & Co., 36, Sackville Street, London.

No more Bald Heads, nor Thin and Poor Hair!

GOLDEN OIL HAIR TONIC

Guaranteed to Cure Baldness

and to Prevent Baldness.

QUICKLY STOPS THE HAIR FALLING OUT.
BEAUTIFIES AND PROMOTES THE GROWTH OF THE HAIR.

The use of GOLDEN OIL HAIR TONIC is beneficial to the Scalp, will keep it healthy and free from scurf, and is guaranteed to cure and to prevent baldness.

GOLDEN OIL HAIR TONIC does not contain any animal matter, and will not become rancid. Though an oil, it is not greasy, dries quickly. yet keeps the scalp cool and pleasantly moist.

GOLDEN OIL HAIR TONIC if used regularly will strengthen the Hair, make it grow luxuriantly, and BEAUTIFUL BEYOND ANTICIPATION.

GOLDEN OIL HAIR TONIC will promote the growth of the eyebrows, eyelashes, whiskers and moustache.

GOLDEN OIL HAIR TONIC prevents premature greyness, will not injure the most sensitive skin, is agreeable and soothing to use.

GOLDEN OIL HAIR TONIC makes the Hair to grow from the first hour it is used.

In cases of baldness: age or the duration of the baldness is no impediment to a complete cure.

Were Golden Oil Hair Tonic generally used, in two or three years' time there would be few, if any, bald-headed persons to be found in the community, and in a brief period the people of these Islands would be noted for the beauty and luxuriance of their hair.

GOLDEN OIL HAIR TONIC needs no advertisement. Once used it SPEAKS FOR ITSELF.

LADIES who use GOLDEN OIL HAIR TONIC for a few months will be charmed with the increased luxuriance and beauty of their Hair.

GOLDEN OIL HAIR TONIC is an ideal dressing for the Hair of children. It not only ensures plentiful and beautiful Hair for life, but it is a certain cure for dandruff, ringworm, and all diseases and outbreaks of the Scalp.

GOLDEN OIL HAIR TONIC is not a dye, but a natural Hair Food, which can be used with advantage and safety by all. Too much cannot be said of its valuable properties. It amply justifies its name, being a GOLDEN SPECIFIC for everything pertaining to the Scalp and Hair.

GOLDEN OIL HAIR TONIC will be found an invaluable preparation, and a most economical dressing for the Hair.

Analyst's Report on Golden Oil Hair Tonic:—

"I hereby certify that the 'Golden Oil Hair Tonic' has been rigorously analysed and practically tested in these Laboratories, the data obtained being of a most satisfactory character, and indicating it to be a judicious and valuable preparation that is well suited for the purpose for which it is designed. It is a unique preparation for the hair and scalp, promoting the growth, preventing premature greyness, and beautifying the hair. I can strongly recommend 'Golden Oil Hair Tonic' as a first-class preparation for the hair.

PURCHASES.—The Society purchases Reversions and Remainders, whether absolute or contingent, Life Interests, whether in possession or deferred, and generally all Interests (in approved property) that depend upon the duration of human life.

LOANS.—The Society also grants Loans on the security of such interests, either on Ordinary Mortgage or by way of Reversionary Charge. The latter mode meets the convenience of borrowers who do not wish to make any payment for either principal or interest until their Reversionary Property falls into possession. The amount to which the Society will then be entitled is fixed at the outset, and does not depend on the time elapsing between the grant of the Loan and its repayment. The option of redeeming the Charge during the first three or five years can usually be combined with this form of Loan.

Forms of proposal and full information can be obtained at the Society's Offices.
